

TEXAS MILITARY PREPAREDNESS COMMISSION

ELLINGTON FIELD JOINT RESERVE BASE - HOUSTON, TX

MISSION: Ellington Field JRB is home to the Texas Air National Guard's 147th Reconnaissance Wing, which is tasked with providing MQ-1 Unmanned Aerial Systems combat support and operations. These sorties provide theater and national-level leadership with critical real-time intelligence, surveillance, reconnaissance, and air-to-ground munitions and strike capabilities. Additional missions located at Ellington Field noted below. Ellington Field supports over 3000 total uniformed and civilian personnel. Uniformed personnel include active duty, reservists, and guard members.

OPERATIONS

147th Reconnaissance Wing

Mission: Unmanned intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance

1-149th Attack Reconnaissance Battalion (TXARNG)

Mission: Equipped and trained attack battalion for combat

75th Training Command (US Army Reserve)

Mission: Mission command and staff training

Navy Operations Support Center, Houston

Mission: Provide administrative support to selected reservists during drill and annual training

United States Coast Guard Air Station Houston (Non-DOD)

Mission: Search & rescue (SAR) and maritime security, law enforcement, and environmental protection

OUTLOOK: As a flexible installation capable of hosting a variety of different missions across all branches of the military, Ellington Field Joint Reserve Base and the surrounding partners will continue to provide support and a home to numerous missions of our national defense.

FOR MORE INFORMATION VISIT: GOV.TEXAS.GOV/MILITARY