ECONOMIC IMPACT

Texas recognizes and appreciates the impact military installations have within defense communities and the state. In 2017, the TMPC, in partnership with the Texas Comptroller's Office, conducted an economic analysis to quantify the impact military missions have on the state's economy.

ECONOMIC ADJUSTMENT PROGRAMS

Defense Economic Adjustment Assistance Grant Program – assists communities impacted by a Department of Defense decision. Funds can be used for purchase of property, infrastructure projects, and purchase of equipment to train defense workers.

Texas Military Value Revolving Loan Fund – $250M fund constitutionally approved for communities impacted by BRAC 1995. To qualify, projects must enhance the military value or economic redevelopment value of an installation.

OUTLOOK

The diverse terrain and favorable climate in Texas will continue to provide ideal conditions for military training and operations. Texas works to be a home to all military branches and military members as well as an integral part of the national defense network.
